FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1916.

Teddy seems to have drawn the first blood.

Teddy is trying to out-Sphinx Hughes.

The Colonel holds the Key—headline. But will it fit the lock?

Daily comment from Justice Hughes on the Convention.

Gratitude is something which you find in the dictionary, no where else.

It must be hard to distinguish between booms, bums and bombs in Chicago.

It won't seem like a campaign this year unless John T. Duncan and Candler of Firzah are in it.

Russia will have to get an adding machine to keep tab on the number of prisoners captured from day to day if this thing keeps up.

A dispatch says the Crown Prince has "set a day to take Verdun." He should have a string tied around his finger, so he won't forget the day.

Many papers are still carrying learned editorials about the German-English battle just as though the editors really knew something about it.

The G. O. P. and Bull Moose conventions should have begun their deliberations by first agreeing to disagree, then maybe they would have had something to say.

What has become of the old fashioned correspondent who used to write to the newspapers about the rapid advances being made through the country by "General Green"?

We certainly hope England and Germany will come day after the day, so as to get the best of that old-fashioned fight, as most of the rest of us have already done so.

Revenue officers found a big still near the city of Greenville yesterday. Now we understand some of the officials that have been appearing in the Greenville News of late.

Five thousand women marched in a National Equal Suffrage Association parade in Chicago the other day in spite of cold, driving rain. Pretty soon we will be taking what has been called the "big" feminist parade in Anderson.

DENYING McLAURIN SPACE

The Intelligencer has received from State Warehouse Commissioner John L. McLaurin a three-column statement in which he makes mention of the recent tilt he had with former governor John Gary Evans and submits an article which he tried to get published in the Columbia State, the aforesaid article being in the nature of an attack on Mr. Evans' personal and political integrity. It might be added that Mr. McLaurin embellished his article with excerpts from the editorial columns of the Columbia State, dating way back in the early nineties, in which editorials the late N. G. Gonzales, the brilliant founder and editor of that newspaper, at various times flayed Governor Evans.

The Intelligencer has declined to publish Mr. McLaurin's article, for the simple reason that we see no necessity for it and we know of no good that could possibly result from its publication. Going back twenty years ago and opening old sores that Time has healed over will not redound to the good of anyone, and we fall to see wherein Mr. McLaurin would be benefited by the publication of his article, which does this very thing. And then, again, The Intelligencer does not care to be made a wash tub for the Warehouse Commissioner or any other person, in public or private life, to wash dirty linen in.

We have always given generously of our space to Mr. McLaurin, both when he has spoken here in the interests of the warehouse system and when he has spoken here in interests of himself. We have always given space gladly to any publicity matter relative to the warehouse system that he has ever mailed to us. And we expect to continue to give space to Mr. McLaurin when he has anything to say that is, in our opinion, worthy of putting before our readers. But in the instance of his attack upon former Governor John Gary Evans, which attack is, as we have said, nothing but a relapse of the bitterness of most bitter times of years ago, we must beg to be excused from printing it.

SWAT THE ALARMIST

We are informed by a headline that "Teddy Will Run if Hughes is Nominated." And that sums up the situation in a more concrete manner than anything that has yet attracted our attention.

If present indications count for anything Hughes will be nominated by the Republicans. And it goes without saying that the Bull Moose party will nominate Roosevelt. With an imaginary din of an hour and 31 minutes still tugging in our ears, a conclusion other than the one we have reached would be well nigh impossible. The "We want Teddy" cry is even in more startling evidence at the Progressive convention than four years ago at the Republican convention.

While the Chicago horse play is under way Democrats are sitting quietly by with a satisfied expression, watching the other two factions play into their hands. Hughes will get the Republican nomination, and Wilson—well, he'll walk away with things again.

Despite President Wilson's firm stand on certain issues that have developed of late, he is a peace loving leader. While Mr. Wilson is our choice in any event, still we have little patience with a certain class of alarmists, many of which exist right here in Anderson. We listen with an open mind to the alarmist who thinks that Teddy Roosevelt would declare war within 30 days after taking the presidential seat; that there is a probability of Germany winning in the great war and using her combined resources to conquer and devastate the United States; that Wilson will refuse to fight under any circumstances, and that without him the country is not safe for a moment.

At any rate we hope both parties will put out a candidate during the Chicago convention. In that event we will feel assured of having Wilson with us again.

A PEACE MAKER

The news that comes from over the State is that Richard I. Manning is setting stronger with the people. One reason of this is that he is leaving his office more to talk to the people. His has been a busy administration and he has not had much time to try to tell the people of the work that he has done and to show the little men and the cheapness of certain criticisms.

Before Mr. Manning's nomination two years ago, Thos. H. Richardson, probate judge of Sumter county, wrote of him:

"In 1905, when our people were well nigh torn asunder by factional strife, we had a Peace Maker among us who observed the fact of warring factions and with the sagacity of a statesman and with the sagacity of a statesman, he called for a peace."

successful conclusion by getting the leading men of both factions to nominate a joint ticket, three men from each side who were overwhelmingly elected to the Constitutional convention which met that year. The Peace Maker was and yet is our friend and fellow citizen, the Hon. Richard I. Manning.

We do not know what efforts were made to bring about peaceful conditions in this State, but they are here, as almost anyone can appreciate, and in a second term Mr. Manning will have more time and more opportunity to bring the people together.—Columbia Record.

OBSERVING THE "FOURTH"

Why can't Anderson have a Fourth of July celebration of some nature this year? Not in several years has the anniversary of this great event been fittingly observed by the people of this locality. There appear to be a number of reasons why a Fourth of July celebration in Anderson would be particularly appropriate this year. None, we believe, will deny that the past year of the European war has seen a more marked crystallization of patriotism in America. Somehow or other since that great conflict has reached the terrible stage that it has events have transpired that have served to make Americans more united in their love for the homeland. We ought to give vent to our feelings then in properly celebrating the day that marks the one hundred and fortieth anniversary of the birth of the United States of America.

REAL ESTATE ADVERTISING

The wide-awake and ever alert Greenwood Index carries this week a four page real estate ad which, as the common run of real estate advertisements go, is a clever piece of work and a stroke of enterprise for both The Index and the advertiser. Commenting on it editorially The Index says "we have our doubts about there ever having been a bigger real estate ad, in inches, in a South Carolina newspaper."

We, too, have our doubts about there ever having been a bigger real estate ad, in inches, in a South Carolina newspaper, but we remember very distinctly one of the same size—four pages—by John Linley, of the North Anderson Development company, and published in an Anderson newspaper some three years ago. It was the work of the present advertising manager of The Intelligencer, and was widely commented upon.

LINE O' DOPE

South Carolina:—Partly cloudy Friday; probably showers near coast; Saturday fair.

In the current issue of Leslie's and on the page entitled, "People Talked About," there appears a picture of Governor Richard I. Manning, and under the head of "Rehabilitating a State," there is printed the following in the magazine:

"Richard I. Manning, the new governor of South Carolina, is redeeming the state from 'Bleasism.' His predecessor Cole Bleas, was a demagogue, who gained great notoriety by pardoning nearly all of the convicts in the penitentiaries. The pardoning power of the state is to be curbed, the state hospitals for the insane are being freed from politics, the taxing system is being revised and many other sane and sensible reforms carried out. Governor Manning's grandfather and great-uncle were governors of South Carolina."

It seems that the method adopted by the city council and the city attorney to regulate the automobile traffic in the city of Anderson is going to prove effective. The daily papers of the city Wednesday printed a statement from the city attorney, Mr. G. Cullen Sullivan, which told of the methods which would be used beginning yesterday at 12 o'clock and it did not take a close observer to notice that the automobile drivers had read these articles. It seemed as if all was driving their machines at a reasonable rate of speed, and especially so around the corners. At police headquarters last night it was stated that not a single charge had been made for reckless driving. It is hoped that the method adopted will work out satisfactorily. It is needless to say that there has been too much speeding and reckless driving in Anderson. It is also hoped that this will not be a spasmodic enforcement but that it will last all the time.

Yesterday ought to have been a half holiday in Anderson according to the Columbia State. Tangle Webb, the Chicago football star and baseball player, who recently joined the Columbia team in the South Atlantic league, made a hit in the "Square Meal" town on Wednesday when out of six times at the bat he made six hits with the stick. The following from the State tells the story:

"Today should be a half holiday in Anderson for St. Clair Webb, the Anderson boy and former Clemson football and baseball star, continued his good work for the Comers. The ex-Tiger played a good game at first base in both games and secured a triple and three singles in addition to stealing a pair of bases."

The following from the Easley Progress is of interest:

"Some twenty or twenty-five years ago, Walker W. Russell, now of Anderson, addressed a farmer's meeting of some kind in that city. In the course of his remarks he predicted that there were people of present who would live to see folks traveling over the country in flying machines. He was laughed at as being visionary at the time, but he has lived to see his prediction verified."

STATE NEWS

Whiskey Poured Out.

Danvers, June 8.—Saturday afternoon the Denmark town authorities poured out into the street 230 gallons of whiskey and 40 gallons of beer. This booze was seized some weeks ago while in transit from Savannah to Charleston. By order of the governor it was held for thirty days, and then destroyed. Denmark has recently enjoyed a "cleanup" among the blind tigers, and a quantity of blind tiger whiskey has been seized and destroyed, and a number of blind tiger sellers have been convicted and either fined or sent to the county chain gang.

Furnman Graduates.

Greenville, June 8.—Gladness and colour were in evidence last evening when twenty-three young men were handed diplomas certifying them to be graduates of Furman university. The exercises marked the ending of the sixty-second year of the institution, and of a valuable addition to the large number of leaders of the state that Furman has graduated at numerous commencement days, and today, reconstruction days, and today. The auditorium was packed to capacity, and the minutest of attention was given by all present to the splendid exercises.

W. W. Daniel Jr.

Bamberg, June 8.—Walter W. Daniel, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Daniel, of Columbia college, who graduated this week from Wofford college, has been tendered a position as teacher of Latin at Carville school, Bamberg. This is considered quite a compliment for a young graduate. Mr. Daniels took a high stand at Wofford. He was prepared for college by Col. A. R. Banks at Hyatt Park, Columbia.

Chick Springs 'Cue.

Spartanburg, June 8.—At a special meeting of the social work committee of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon it was definitely decided that the association would hold a big barbecue and patriotic celebration at Chick Springs on July 4th. The members of the committee were enthusiastically in favor of the project, and will give their best efforts to make it a success.

Mr. J. B. Lee met with the committee and gave some valuable suggestions along the line of barbecues. The best expert available in preparing barbecues will be engaged and everything will be first class in every respect.

Charleston Storm.

Charleston, June 8.—The storm king turned loose his light artillery upon Charleston yesterday morning, and for about fifteen or twenty minutes there was an exciting time of it, with a 38-mile wind from the northwest, accompanied by rain and a vivid pyrotechnic display threatening to tear loose from his moorings the sleeper who was so unfortunate as to leave the windows open. The Charleston Isle of Palms traffic system suffered a wallop from the squall, which temporarily disabled it, when the blow of the Cove Inlet bridge, crippling wires. In the city several trees, telegraph and telephone poles were knocked over by the violence of the intermittent puffs of wind.

The official record of the squall shows a wind velocity of about 33 miles an hour from the northwest, lasting from 2:10 until 2:15. This morning, during that time 0.13 of an inch of rainfall were recorded. The squall came with a suddenness that was surprising despite the fact that the probability of such had been predicted in a warning from Washington, and that high winds had been blowing for most of the evening.

Largest Duct Loom.

Columbia, June 8.—The largest duct loom in the world has been successfully operated at the Columbia Duct mills for a month, the results obtained being so satisfactory that a second loom, lacking only a few inches of being as large as the first, is being installed.

The weight of the machine is so heavy that two heavy automobile cars were necessary in transporting it from the factory in Worcester, Mass., to Columbia. Altogether, the loom occupies a floor space of about 2,000 square feet of cotton. It is the largest of the looms of the kind in the world, and it is being installed at the Columbia Duct mills, who recently joined the Colum-

Kress in Greenville.

Greenville, June 8.—That S. H. Kress & Co., of New York, who operate a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores through the country, are planning to establish a store here, is inferred by local citizens who learn that the company has been negotiating for a lease of property on Main street. No definite decision has been arrived at as to whether or not the company will locate here, according to reliable information Thursday.

Postmaster Gets Raise.

Greenville, June 8.—On account of the big increase in postal receipts at Greenville during the past twelve months, making the annual receipts here now in excess of $80,000, the salary of Postmaster D. B. Traxler, is increased to $3,300 per annum, beginning July 1. The increase in the postal receipts during the past twelve months is a sure indication of the rapid forward strides of the city. The yearly receipts for the twelve months ending March 31, 1915, according to the official reports, were shown to be $75,084.78. At the end of the subsequent four quarters, ending March 31, this year, the year's receipts aggregated $81,782.57. The greatest increase came in the two quarters ending December 31, 1915, and March 31, 1916.

SOME SINGULAR STORIES

ELEVEN ANDERSON BROTHERS IN CONFEDERATE ARMY

O. M. Bazhardt, of Newberry, Gives Interesting Information of a Waterloo Family.

From Waterloo, S. C., during the War between the States, eleven brothers, by the name of Anderson, went forth to defend Southern homes and firelocks. The names of these soldiers were: D. W. O. P. R. W. C. H. George, Adolphus, Thomas, John, Joel, Patrick and Benjamin Anderson. Four were in the western army (one of them an engineer) one was a member of the 2nd South Carolina regiment, two were in James Battalion, Garshaw's brigade, one was a member of a cavalry regiment, two were incapacitated to serve in the ranks and were assigned to a different branch of the army and the youngest, an account of age, was with the state troops. One was killed in Virginia and one was wounded. The remaining of those in the western army are at hand. All have played over the river except two, now past three score and ten.

Mr. George Anderson and Mrs. Amelia Smith Anderson were the grandparents and great-grandparents of the Anderson family of sixteen children all told. Mr. Anderson was born about the close of the eighteenth century. Mrs. Anderson four years later, and both attained a patriarchal age.

I am disposed to challenge our Southland to produce the name of a family that gave more sons to fight for Southern rights—Confederate Veterans.

Mr. Patrick Anderson, named in the above list is the father of Messrs. H. A. W. H. and the Andersons of

WASN'T EVEN RELATIVE OF ELEPHANT HE HURT

So Marine Stood By the Animal With Safety

San Diego, Calif., June 8.—Having heard of the length and tenacity of an elephant's memory, and remembering a trick he had played on one years before, Private Don O. Davis of the United States marine corps, begged to be excused from participating in the elephant maneuvers recently held by marines on the exposition grounds in this city.

"I remember, when a kid, of slipping a fine large 'shaw' of plug tobacco into the throat of a pachyderm that strangely resembles that big fellow over there," he told his commanding officer.

But marines never flinch—no matter what the danger—and Davis was ordered to take his place by the side of the elephant he feared.

And then—nothing at all happened.

The elephant by Davis' side was not related—not even by marriage—to the elephant he had wronged in his youth.

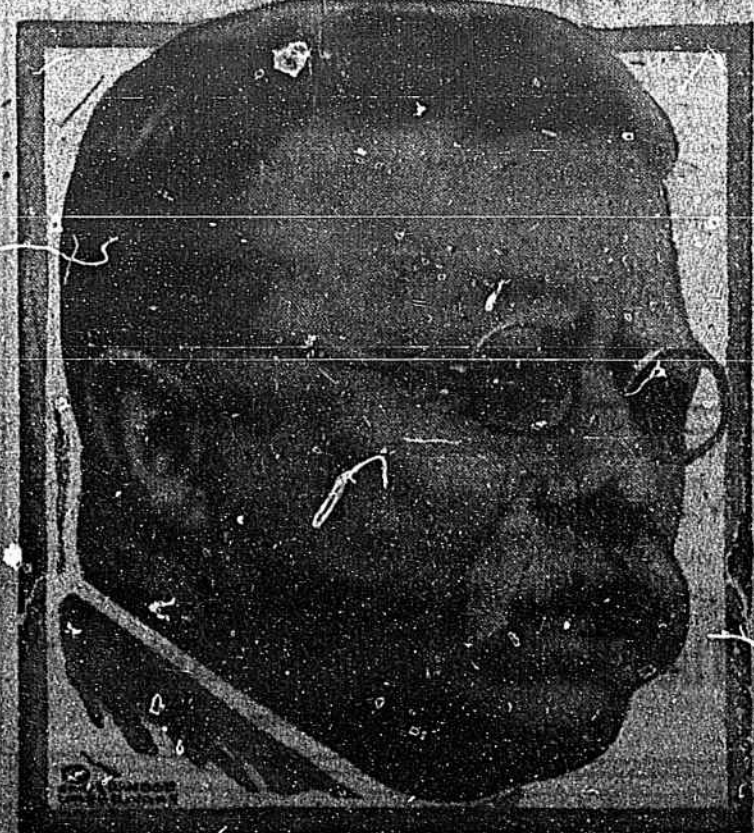

Lutek Evacuated.

London, June 8.—A Central News dispatch from Rome says that information at the Russian embassy there says that the Austrians evacuated Lutek, one of the Volhynian triangle fortresses. Several brigades of Austrians are reported captured with the fortress. It is stated that the Austrian lines have been broken in Volhynia and they are withdrawn nearly twenty miles throughout the Lutek sector.

Pension For Horses.

Atlanta, June 8.—The passing of horse-drawn fire apparatus and the closing of one more line of work for the faithful horse has been signalled in Atlanta by the retirement of two famous fire horses on a pension to spend the balance of their days in peace. Their names are "Eagle" and "Nigger" and they have made hundreds of thrilling runs to fires.

In His Fighting Mood.
